- THE SPANISH CURATE. [By John Fletcher and Philip Massinger.] Cast not known.
COMMENT. The King's Company. Pepys, Diary: Seeing that the "Spanish Curate" was acted to-day, I . . . home again and sent to young Mr Pen and his sister to go anon with my wife and I to the Theatre . . . we went by coach to the play, and there saw it well acted, and a good play it is, only Diego the Sexton did overdo his part too much. [Sir Edward Browne seems to connect this play with the Duke's Company. See Introduction to 1661-1662.] Wednesday 1

- COMMENT. The edition of 1662 suggests that this was a ballet, the text offering description or synopses of the entries. Edition of 1662: Being part of that Magnificent Entertainment by the Noble Prince, De la Grange, Lord Lieutenant of Lincoln's Inn. Presented to the High and Mighty Charles II, Monarck of Great Britain, France and Ireland. On Friday 3 of January 1662.
- Evelyn, Diary: After Prayers I went to Lond: invited to the solemn foolerie of the Prince de la Grange at Lincolne Inn: where came also the King, Duke, &c.: beginning with a grand Masque and a formal Pleading before the mock-princes (Grandees), Nobles & Knights of the Sunn: He had his L. Chancelor, Chamberlaine, Treasurer, & other royal officers gloriously clad & attended, which ended in a magnificent Banquet: one Mr [John] Lort, being the young spark, who maintaind the Pageantrie.
- Pepys, Diary: While I was there, comes by the King's life-guard, he being gone to Lincoln's Inn this afternoon to see the Revells there; there being, according to an old custom, a prince and all his nobles, and other matters of sport and charge.
