LIF THE MAN'S THE MASTER. [By Sir William Davenant.] Edition of 1669: Prologue. No actors' names. The Epilogue. In a Ballad, Sung by Two. Downes (Roscius Anglicanus, p. 30): Master – Harris; The Man – Underhill. Mr Harris and Mr Sandford, Singing the Epilogue like two Street Ballad-Singers. [According to the Catalogue of the MS Music, Christ Church, John Bannister set a song for this play.]
COMMENT. The Duke's Company. Downes (p. 30): This Comedy in general was very well Perform'd. Pepys, Diary: I alone to the Duke of York's house, to see the new play, called "The Man is the Master," where the house was, it being not above one o'clock, very full. But my wife and Deb. being there before, with Mrs Pierce and Corbet and Betty Turner, whom my wife carried with her, they made me room; and there I sat, it costing me 8s. upon them in oranges, at 6d. apiece. By and by the King come; and we sat just under him, so that I durst not turn my back all the play. The play is a translation out of French, and the plot Spanish, but not anything extraordinary at all in it, though translated by Sir W. Davenant, and so I found the King and his company did think meanly of it, though there was here and there something pretty: but the most of the mirth was sorry, poor stuffe, of eating of sack posset and slabbering themselves, and mirth fit for clownes; the prologue but poor, and the epilogue little in it but the extraordinariness of it, it being sung by Harris and another in the form of a ballet.

Bridges THE BLACK PRINCE. See 19 Oct. 1667.
COMMENT. The King's Company. Pepys, Diary: All alone to the King's house, and there sat in an upper box, to hide myself, and saw "The Black Prince," a very good play; but only the fancy, most of it, the same as in the rest of my Lord Orrery's plays; but the dance very stately; but it was pretty to see how coming after dinner and with no company with me to talk to, and at a play that I had seen, and went to now not for curiosity but only idleness, I did fall asleep the former part of the play, but afterward did mind it and like it very well.
- Friday 3*
LIF THE MAN'S THE MASTER. See 26 March 1667/8.
COMMENT. The Duke's Company. Pepys, Diary: My Lord Brouncker and I to the Duke of York's playhouse, and there saw the latter part of "The Master and the Man."

Bridges THE ENGLISH MONSIEUR. [By James Howard.] Cast not known.
COMMENT. The King's Company. Pepys, Diary: To the King's playhouse, and there saw "The English Monsieur"; sitting for privacy sake in an upper box: the play hath much mirth in it as to that particular humour. After the play done, I down to Knipp, and did stay her undressing herself; and there saw the several players, men and women go by; and pretty to see how strange they are all, one to another, after the play is done. Here I saw a wonderful pretty maid of her own, that come to undress her, and one so pretty that she says she intends not to keep her, for fear of her being undone in her service, by coming to the playhouse.
